

LOSING MILLIONS IN COTTON SEED

Crushers' Association Taking Steps to Stop Waste in Transit.

COMPLAIN OF TARIFF ALSO

Government Asked to Take Up Matter of Austrian Prohibitory Duty.

NEW ORLEANS, La., September 23.—Facts from both sides of the controversy as to why cotton seed product exporters lose thousands of dollars monthly from negligent handling of their goods in steamship transportation were presented at to-day's extraordinary session of the Interstate Cotton Seed Crushers' Association.

Action was taken to comb foreign tariffs, which are claimed to have cut down Southern business in these products by $2,000,000 annually.

The convention nominated Albert G. Perkins of Memphis, Tenn., for the position of United States expert abroad on the subject of cotton seed products. This nomination is tantamount to appointment, which will be made by Secretary Strauss of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

Professor J. H. Connell, of Dallas, Texas, was the only other candidate for nomination. Mr. Perkins succeeds J. L. Benton, of Mobile, Ala., who reported to the convention his observations upon causes of the losses of Southern shippers.

Complaint of Shipping Losses.

Mr. Benton, in his address before the Cotton Crushers' Convention, told of the enormous waste in cotton seed products due to careless handling by steamship lines, and of the loss to the American shippers thereby, estimated as high as $1,000,000 in a single year. Mr. Benton said it would be a difficult task to extend steamship lines and hold shippers abroad until the delivery is improved.

He recommended sending a permanent representative of the Crushers' Association abroad to watch the condition of goods on arrival. A reply to Mr. Benton was made by M. J. Sanders, agent at New Orleans for the Leland Steamship Line, who holds shippers partly responsible for the waste in putting up their products in inferior wrappings.

The convention provided for the appointment of a committee of three members of the Crushers' Association to confer with steamship lines on handling of cotton seed products. To report to President A. Ransom of the association. To remedy the almost prohibitive tariff of Austria-Hungary, a resolution was adopted, asking members of the association to use their influence with Congressmen and Senators. The resolution also called upon Secretary Strauss to instruct the United States Ambassador at Vienna to use his good offices in the same direction.

The convention adjourned to-day.

WANT BARR TO REMAIN

Exposition Directors Urged Against Any Change—Meeting To-day.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
NORFOLK, Va., September 23.—A persistent effort is being made to have James M. Barr retained as director-general of the Jamestown Exposition, but those who claim to know Mr. Barr's mind say that nothing could induce him to withdraw his letter of resignation. Exposition concessionaires to the number of about fifty, to-day signed a petition to the board of directors for his retention, claiming that "Any change in the head of the exposition affairs at this time will most assuredly work untold harm to every interest represented."

The directors of the exposition will meet to-morrow to act on the resignation of Mr. Barr. It is still said that Colonel Walter H. Taylor, president of the Marine Bank, of Norfolk, will succeed Mr. Barr, should he consent to do so.

That is practically certain, but the colonel has as yet let drop no word as to whether or not he will accept the place. His decision is a matter of doubt. Lieutenant-Governor J. Taylor Elliston, of Richmond, who is director of history and education at the exposition, the most complete department of the fair, it seems, stands the best chance of getting the place, should Colonel Taylor refuse it. Other names mentioned in connection with the office are those of T. S. Southgate, director of exhibits, and Alvin H. Martin, one of the old board of governors, formerly active in the affairs of the exposition, but who was laid aside when Barr assumed the office of director-general.

May Recover Fox-Hound.

A large black and tan fox-hound is being held at the First Police Station for identification by its owner. The dog has a split in its left ear and two toes on the left hind foot are missing. The police would be glad to turn the animal over to its owner.

GROWING GIRLS NEED PINK PILLS

The Tonic Necessary for Their Proper Development and to Insure a Healthful and Happy Life—Read This Statement of an Iowa Woman.

There is a form of anaemia, or bloodlessness, that often afflicts growing girls, that has been called the anaemia of development. It requires care and proper attention, as neglect may cause a life of unhappiness and suffering. There is also danger of consumption, especially if a dry, hacking cough is noticed. The disease is in the blood, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are particularly well adapted to cure it. We have yet to hear of a case in which these blood-making pills have been tried without success.

Miss Esther E. Durbin, of 2121-2 Main Street, Davenport, Iowa, says: "When I was a school girl I became afflicted with anaemia, and grew so weak that I could scarcely walk. There was a craving for starch, and I ate a great deal of it. I was pale and thin, had no ambition, and was subject to hysterical attacks. My breath was so short that I would have to sit down and rest on the way up the school steps. I would fall asleep during a recitation, in spite of my efforts to keep awake, and at last had to give up going to school."

"Sometimes it seemed as if my heart would jump out of my body. Almost everything I ate hurt my stomach, and I had a bladder trouble that caused me to bleed and puff up. I had two doctors during the two years before I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and at last they told my mother that they could do nothing for me."

"Our druggist recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and when I had taken them about three weeks I noticed a change for the better. Altogether I used them for about a year, and they gave me new life and health, when every other means had failed. I have recommended the pills to many others, and am always glad to do so."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

MOTHERLESS GIRL SENT FROM HOME

Estelle Allen Told by Woman Who Kept Her That She Did Not Want Any More Children.

Estelle Allen, a little nine-year-old white girl, was found at Duval and Charity Streets last night by Police Officer Thurman, who turned her over to the City Home authorities. The homeless little girl stated that her father and mother were dead, and that the woman with whom she had been living had told her she did not want any more children in her home. So the little girl was sent out into the night, and it would have been a cold bed she must have laid in had it not been for the kindly officer and the soft-hearted authorities of the City Home, who took her in when there was no other to give her shelter.

NEGRO PROBLEM IS TO COME UP HERE

Negro Episcopalians in South Wish Convention to Settle It.

NEW DIOCESE IS PROPOSED

Would Include Only Negro Churches and Have Its Own Bishop.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., September 23.—"Race problems promise to be among the most important subjects to be considered at the triennial conference of the Episcopal Church of America," said Bishop Samuel C. Edsall, of Minnesota, who is in the East to attend the great conference, which begins next week at Richmond.

"Few things have come before the conference of recent years of more vital importance than the problem of dealing with the colored membership in the Southern States," said Bishop Edsall. "The situation is not apparent to a Northerner. In Minnesota the church recognizes no difference in races or in blood, and the foundation laid by Bishop Whipple in his fight for the equality of the Indians in the church has been built upon a consistent and upholds a church in which different races sit in entire harmony."

"It has been impossible to ignore racial differences in the South, however, and the negro members of the Episcopal church are anxious that the general conference take up their problem and help in the solution of it. A plan has been proposed which will be considered at length by the conference at Richmond, and which may finally be adopted by the church."

"This plan involves the creation of a new diocese of the church, not on territorial lines, as are the regular divisions of the church, but including the colored membership of the church in the Southern States. This diocese would have its own bishop and conduct its own affairs, and would select representatives for the general conference, who would attend the triennial gatherings. The new diocese would then finally come into the general church."

"The plans have not been discussed in detail, and it is possible that the Richmond conference may take no final action toward this end, but the clergy throughout the country has given careful consideration to the idea."

"The satisfactory establishment of the negro Episcopal Church in the South would mean a great deal for the strengthening of the general church and the ultimate solution of the negro problem."

INJUNCTION MOST SWEEPING ORDER

Federal Judge Lochren Ties Up Minnesota Commodity Rate Law.

ST. PAUL, MINN., September 23.—Judge Lochren, of the United States Court, to-day issued an order for an injunction which absolutely ties up the State's commodity rate law pending a final decree in his case, or until the lower court's decision is overruled on appeal by the State. The order is sweeping in its terms, taking in not only the defendants at bar, including the Attorney-General and shippers who were made parties to the actions, but all other persons as well. This means that even though the courts attorneys throughout the State, whose duty it is to institute and prosecute criminal actions under the law, were not made parties defendant in the suits filed by the railroads through their stockholders, yet the county attorneys and everybody else are warned to keep their hands off the railroad while Judge Lochren's order is in effect.

Not only is everybody enjoined from taking or instituting or causing or aiding to be instituted any action, suit, stop or proceeding for the violation of said act, but anybody and everybody is enjoined from demanding that any of the rates contained in the act be given to them. The order issued to-day relates to the Northern Pacific case. Similar orders will be drawn in the other eight cases. Injunctions will be served in accordance with the orders.

It is reported to-day that the State officials are planning to violate the injunction in such a manner that habeas corpus proceedings will have to be instituted, in which event the case will be carried up to the United States Supreme Court, and the whole matter determined there, instead of going through the usual routine, lasting probably three years.

Reception to Medics.

It was largely attended by the faculty and students, and a spirit of good cheer prevailed. Dr. William P. Matthews, professor of orthopaedic surgery, gave a short address, outlining the history of the college, and of the rates contained in the act. Dr. Y. M. C. A. on the students. He then introduced Mr. Polk Miller, who, with his famous old, South quarter entertained the crowd in his own inimitable manner for two hours. Refreshments were served in one of the laboratories.

THE TURKS PUT THE SPORTS ENTIRELY OUT OF BUSINESS

Cheik Bey, a Diplomat Without Credentials, is About to Leave Washington Without Having Visited the White House.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, Munsey Building, Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.
There is about to be a swapping of Turks at Washington, the Sultan having decided that Cheik Bey, the representative of the Porte at this post, has had a snap long enough. So Cheik Bey will go back to Constantinople and another faithful follower of the prophet, Mehmet Ali, will take his place.

There is good reason for saying that the position of Turkish minister to the United States is not precisely a snap. It is understood that the position pays only $750 a year. The insignificance of this sum, as compared for instance, with the $50,000 which Ambassador Bryce receives for sending the interests of Great Britain at Washington, is pathetic. For Cheik Bey has had to maintain an establishment, and while this has never been the scene of much social gaiety he has had to do considerable entertaining.

Cheik is something of a sportsman, although his typically Oriental demeanor prevents his showing the usual characteristics of that genus homo. One evening last winter a well-known gentleman of this city, who knew the minister, and liked him, invited him to dine at his home, and had several friends to meet him after the dinner. The host is of a very hospitable, not to say convivial, turn, and he selected the male guests with a view to having some fun with the Turkish diplomat. The host and deep discomfiture of the host is known to many of his friends, and around it on the evening in question were gathered a dozen or more of well-known clubmen, ready to heed the request of the host that the Turkish minister be given a good time.

The drinks came mighty fast and were of infinite variety, from Three Feathers and Old Jordan to Veuve Clicquot. Cheik came up wearing that mournful smile after every round, talking but little, but indicating very clearly, as he sipped his mulling sweet mint between drinks, that he was entirely appreciative of the efforts of the company to give him a good time. He did not miss anything in the refreshment line, and at midnight there was a mighty brisk business in cabs being down from the home which was the scene of the festivities, and the host and servants found themselves fully engaged assisting departing guests to their conveyances, which had been telephoned for.

But Cheik never looked better, and doubtless he was unable to recall that he had ever felt better. He assured his host that the evening had been one of supreme bliss to him. No, thanks, he would not ride home, but would walk, as it was only a few blocks, and he had been sitting some hours. And he and his English secretary tramped away, the minister, at least, looking as fresh as though he had just come from a Turkish bath, after a week of sobriety and rest.

Cheik Bey has never been presented to President Roosevelt, though he has

RAINS CAUSE BUT LITTLE DAMAGE

Water Rises Nineteen Feet at Columbia, but Only Few Feet Here.

Storms of the autumnal equinox visited the city again yesterday, though in less severe degree than upon Monday, when the streets were everywhere washed clean as though with a broom. Locally, it rained through the greater part of the morning, but cleared in the afternoon, and at night the moon came out from the gloomy clouds.

The rain was general all over the State. At Columbia, on the James River, the water rose to nineteen feet at 8 o'clock. It continued to rise through the earlier part of the night, but only for a few inches. The river here rose somewhere between six inches and a foot. No damage has anywhere been reported so far.

Situation at Lynchburg.

A special from Lynchburg says: "Owing to heavy rains in this section the James River has risen twelve feet to-day, and early to-night is fourteen feet and still rising, and it will probably reach the highest point in five years before the crest comes late to-night. Blackwater Creek, which flows through the city, is higher than in many years and considerable damage was done by washing in the vicinity of the gas works. No damage is expected from the river, as it will hardly reach the danger point by several feet. Pedlar River, the source of the city's new supply, was higher this afternoon than it had been for ten years, but the water continues clear in the city."

SERIOUS FLOOD AT ROANOKE.

ROANOKE, Va., September 23.—The worst flood that has visited Roanoke in fifteen years was experienced last night and to-day. Rain fell in sheets for thirteen hours. The water came from the hills and filled the streets of the business centre to a depth of from six to twelve inches, sweeping through many stores. Roanoke River rose to thirty-two feet, and swept away fences and small buildings. Other streams got out of their banks. The tracks of the Norfolk and Western Railway were under water at several points near Roanoke, and some trains were delayed twelve hours by the inundation.

Heavy in North Carolina.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
SALISBURY, N. C., September 23.—This section of North Carolina was visited to-day by the heaviest rain storm of the year. Heavy winds accompanied the rain, and in some sections the storm was fierce, though little damage is reported.
